ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
SCHOOL BOARD,
OF THE
TOWN OF BARNSTEAD,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING FEBRUARY 15, 1905.

SCHOOL REPORT.

Another year with its varied experiences has passed, and it becomes the duty of the school board of Barnstead to submit a report of the condition of the public schools.

During the year schools were maintained in all the houses for a portion of the time; in the Taskér and Bickford districts there were no spring terms, the number of pupils not warranting the opening of a school. A fall term was held in each district and a winter term was commenced. Later there being but few scholars and the attendance irregular on account of cold weather and bad travelling, these schools were discontinued.

The Dennett and Locke schools for like causes were cut short of the regular term; all the schools outside the village suffered more or less from these causes. As a rule we have opened schools where there were five scholars to attend the same. The board has learned by experience that parents generally object to their children being conveyed, by contract, to other schools more or less remote.

The school year was of twenty-nine weeks, divided into three terms. The schools have been successful; irregular attendance has impaired the success of some of the schools. The teachers have promptly reported the non-attendance of scholars, but after considering facts—an almost impassable road and the thermometer near zero—it seemed to the board that humanity had a higher law, more binding than statute enactment, and we excused them from attendance. In the coming spring and summer terms the law requiring regular attendance of scholars will be rigidly enforced. The teachers have been earnest in their work and are entitled to the thanks of parents for the sound moral influence they have exerted upon their children. Your board has tried to cultivate accuracy in the schools, to have teachers and pupils take pains enough and time enough to find out things for certain. We have tried to show scholars that to know a smattering of many things is worth less than to know thoroughly one thing out of many.

The world has no use for a man who thinks or guesses something is so. The times demand and seek the man who knows some one thing sure. The scholar should be taught to be more ambitious to know one thing sure than to know a little about many things. One defect in the course of study in our common schools, is that requiring the scholar to know about too many studies.

Scholars are limited as to time, strength and ability. If we divide their time and strength among too many studies they cannot make a success of any one. Some scholars' knowledge is so inaccurate and uncertain, that it would be better if they confessed to downright ignorance. Half knowledge is more discernable in after life, but its ill effect is noticeable in the schoolroom.

Then there is a larger class who really know a certain thing and feel sure of it until some one differs with them; when they meet with contradiction they begin to be doubtful and end in a tangle of uncertainty. The only sort of knowledge which is worth anything is to know, and know that, you know.

Here in Barnstead eighty five per cent of the scholars in our schools obtain all their education in our common schools. The number seeking a higher education is limited. It would seem, therefore, that it is the duty of school board, teachers, and parents to see that the really essential things are taught and accurately learned in our common schools.

The over crowding of the course of study has become almost unbearable. Why not throw out cube root and all the other brain-racking, time-consuming things, that are rarely used in common life, and have a great deal more drill in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, decimals and common fractions, the parts of arithmetic that are most used in after life. While there has been progress in school matters, while text books have been multiplied, and free school supplies furnished, and teachers are better equipped for their work, yet some things remain as in the days of our fathers. No scholar has achieved, or ever will achieve, anything worth attaining without working for it. There is no satisfactory substitute for industry and life is not planned that we get something for nothing.

After many years experience on this board, we acknowledge the fact, that the success of the school depends, in the last resort, on the teacher. Whatever may have been done by the school board in providing rules for the control of the school, at last you come to a place, where success depends upon the teacher having the will to be earnest, energetic and enthusiastic when confronted by unexpected happenings in the school room, or when beset by causeless complaints of parents or by the inattention and laziness of the pupil.

Again we appeal to the tax payers of Barnstead to be liberal in their appropriation for schools. Common schools are cheaper than reform schools, jails, policemen and soldiers.

Schools are established not only to instruct in the sciences contained in the text books, but to inculcate honesty, morality and temperance and to train new citizens and fit them for self government, and when some day the public school and its elder brother, the church, shall have done their full duty, there will be no need of jails, policemen or soldiers.

CHARLES B. DAVIS, Town Clerk.

Report of Library.

FELLOW TOWNSMEN: I submit my report for the year ending Feb. 15, 1905. Number of books in the library, not including public documents, 2,015. We have added by purchase, 224; by gift, 35; social library, 8; C. E. Walker, 2; Abbie Brown, 6; James H. Bridge, 1; E. H. R. Green, 1; Harriette E. Noyes, 2; H. L. Leach, 14; Rev. Charles Caverno, L. L. D., 1. An important addition to the library is a volume of New Hampshire Laws, Colonial Period. 1679 to 1702. Also James H. Bridges "Inside History of the Carnegie Steel Company."

Books are the harvest sheaves of the mind. They are the several lanterns which show forth the light of science, wisdom and wit. They are the baskets which hold thoughts, choicest jewels and the goal of learning. When one enters into the spirit of the books, they seem like living souls of men. All of the immortal sages, seers and bards utter their inspiring words to one's heart, and teach the good and true. like as a thousand stars give one pure light. One does not need to be a bookworm or a dry, musty old philosopher to appreciate and love good books, but one who is reading to please himself may be one of the greatest lovers of books.

The library will be open for the delivery of books on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons (except holidays) from 2 to 5 o'clock.
